

Research Programme

Thursday 8th December 2016

Key points

- RGSB has launched its research programme
- We want to encourage a wide range of academics, researchers and others to be involved in its delivery
- We want your views on topics and questions that we have missed

Research programme

- Sets out the research needed for each priority action
- For each project we outline:
  - Purpose
  - Research questions
  - Existing research
  - Possible research techniques
- We set out our view of priorities

Priority projects

- Measuring gambling-related harm
- Young people and advertising
- Analysis of data on how people gamble – across a wider range of products and environments
- Further action research on preventative education

Commissioning

- To be delivered in line with the Research Commissioning and Governance Procedure
  - RGSB
    - Create and maintain the Research Programme
    - Write research briefs
  - GambleAware
    - Responsible for commissioning plan, invitations to tender and quality assurance
    - Will commission research in line with charitable objectives and open invites for 'innovative research'

Summing up

- Research Programme is available on RGSB and GambleAware's website
- Please read it and consider what role you could play in its delivery
- Let us know what topics and questions you think we have missed
